Shaping the Future of Teacher Development: Micro-Credentials for the Digital Education Era

Invitation to the conference

University of Montenegro is pleased to host the International Conference Shaping the Future of Teacher Development: Micro-Credentials for the Digital Education Era. This event is organized within the Erasmus+ project „MOOC-BASED Micro-credentials for teacher professional development” (CRED4TEACH), which aims to develop and promote flexible short learning programs (Micro-credentials) to support teacher growth in Montenegro, Albania, and Ukraine. As a full partner of CRED4TEACH, the University of Montenegro warmly invites teachers from various sectors, school administrators, academic staff, educational decision makers and all other interested participants to join the conference.

What can you expect from the conference?

The CRED4TEACH partnership, comprising 15 institutions from Albania, Estonia, Germany, Montenegro, Portugal, Türkiye, and Ukraine, will share hands-on experience in developing and implementing micro-credentials. You will:

- Learn about the perspectives of international teachers and instructors involved in piloting MOOC-based micro-credentials,
- Gain an overview of strategies to enhance the quality and impact of micro-credentials across the European Union,
- Receive inspiration and impulses for advancing your teaching career,
- Discover ideas for strengthening national and institutional policies in teacher professional development,
- Obtain a Certificate of Attendance.
